

Prof. Lorenzo Livi, MD

University of Florence, Florence, Italy

He is currently Full Professor and Chairman of Radiation Oncology at the Department of Experimental and Clinical Biomedical Sciences “M. Serio” of the University of Florence (Florence, Italy). Prof. Livi is also serving as Director of the Radiation Oncology Unit of the Oncology Department of the Florence University Hospital “Careggi” (Florence, Italy) since 2013. He is actively involved in international research project and mentorship. Prof. Livi is active member of numerous national and international scientific societies such as ASTRO, ESTRO, EORTC, and AIRO. He is principal investigator of several trials and has authored more than 400 full research papers (H-index 35, <https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/?term=Livi+L&sort=date>). He participated as invited speaker in a number of national and international conferences. Prof. Livi’s main areas of clinical and scientific interest include Breast, Lung and GU cancer, CNS tumors, health-related quality of life, cardiac toxicity prevention and Radiobiology.