

Saverio Caini (MD PhD) is a senior medical epidemiologist working at the Institute for Cancer Research, Prevention, and Clinical Network (ISPRO) in Florence, Italy. His main research interests are the study of the genetic, lifestyle-related, and environmental determinants of cancer risk and survival, with a particular focus on molecular mechanisms of carcinogenesis.